

The dimensions shown are a example of shapes in the marketplace and should be used as a baseline. These can and should be adjusted as necessary to custom fit the client or particular need.

There are few dimensions shown because this drawing should print to scale, and the example can actually be cut out for a template if desired. If for some reason the scale is not accurate, just compare dimensions with the ruler above the template, it will match the drawing scale.

The grip shown is based on styles and shapes currently in the public domain, and is identified by the common known name. Use of this name does not constitute a connection with any person or company past or present. There is no known copyright of this information.
